MAYOR'S MESSAGE

Mayor, Cr Jennifer Anderson

I am excited to share with you another diverse annual program of events that aims to entertain, educate and inspire you, and that brings acts to your region that you might otherwise have to travel far and wide to see.

Enhancing the cultural life of the Macedon Ranges is an important part of Council's role and we hope that this year's program supports this goal. We aim to complement all the amazing talent that exists in our region by bringing you different acts

We know that laughter is good for the soul and for our health, and we are fortunate this year to have been approached by a number of touring comedy acts looking to perform in our region. This means more shows added to our usual program.

For families, there is silliness, slapstick, acrobatics and physical theatre including a fresh, funny take on an old Shakespearean classic, Macbeth. If you prefer daytime entertainment, our ever-popular Morning Music series is on again this year, featuring old favourites such as Pavarotti, Edith Piaf, and Fred Astair and Ginger Rogers.

The Kyneton Museum is the perfect place to connect with local culture and history and this year is hosting some fascinating exhibitions: Chinese Fortune will give you a new appreciation for the contributions of Chinese immigrants during the gold rush, while Equus covers a subject close to many hearts, paying homage to our region's love affair with horses.

to what is already on offer. Local artists have also been catered for with our new workshop series, Look Who's Talking, which will help artists get market ready and sell and price their work.

This year we will also begin implementing a new Arts and Culture Strategy, which sets out how we will support our local artists and cultural assets, including venues and cultural sites. Thank you to those who shared their ideas and feedback on this 10-year plan.

I encourage you to take advantage of this well-curated and professionally presented program by booking your tickets early and taking the opportunity while you're in Kyneton to explore all that this beautiful, historic town has to offer.

Full of the stuff you love best, Speedmouse is a live action, fast paced, rewind, slow motion, frame-by-frame adventure where two men create the impossible out of a microphone and a unique physical ability that has no equal.

Their awards include two BAFTA's, an Emmy, the Critics' Choice Award at Edinburgh Fringe Festival and a Helpmann for Comedy Performers of the Year.

“In Speedmouse, Dave and Shane perform a parade of unrelated sketches loosely linked by ridiculous transitions that are triggered by a remote control that someone in the crowd is using to manipulate their behaviour. They warn us that the remote has functions that include the usual fast-forward, pause, slo-mo and rewind, but also additional, absurd buttons for insinuation, argument and porno. Look out Dave and Shane!”

Still revered across Australia, Henry Lawson is one of the nation's favourite writers and poets. His contemporary, Mary Gilmore, was a literary icon and radical socialist. Both were heroes of literature that had enormous influence over each other. Both were later the face of Australia's currency.

Both were secretly betrothed to each other.

At the end of the 19th Century, Mary Gilmore was introduced to the young Henry Lawson. As their friendship developed, Mary found herself caught in the midst of an intense relationship between Henry and his formidable mother, the suffragette Louise Lawson. What followed was the beginning of a love affair, soon thwarted by a devastating deception.

Directed by the award-winning Denny Lawrence and starring Dion Mills as Henry Lawson and Kim Denman as Mary Gilmore.

The award-winning play Hotel Sorrento by Australian writer Hannie Rayson, which inspired the film of the same name, tells the story of three sisters who grew up together in the seaside town of Sorrento.

One sister, Hilary, still lives in the family home with their father and her 16 year-old son. Pippa, a business woman, is visiting from New York and Meg, a successful writer, has returned from England. Meg announces that her latest novel is semi-autobiographical and this triggers familiar tensions.

The play is about family in both a pragmatic and symbolic sense and the importance of blood ties and collective family memories, true or false.

“This is a real Australian family in a real Australian setting, a gentle psychological thriller that no Australian should miss.”

"In the spring of 1852, the clipper Ticonderoga limped through the heads of Melbourne's Port Phillip Bay after a nightmare three-month voyage from Liverpool. Onboard was a picture of hell."

Written and performed by author, comedian and actor Michael Veitch, Hell Ship portrays one of the most dramatic, yet now-forgotten chapters of Australia's early maritime history.

With the aid of images and soundscape, Veitch recounts remarkable stories of endurance and survival from those on the ship, and brings to light the courage of his heroic great-great-grandfather, James William Henry Veitch, the young surgeon on the fatal trip.

"...what [Veitch] lands is one of the best, quietly gut-wrenching antiwar statements you're likely to sight this decade..."

Brought to you by physical theatre ensemble Company 13, this fresh, family-friendly take on an old classic cracks along with wit and humour.

Combining Shakespeare's rich language with a healthy dose of invention and idiocy, Macbeth incorporates all the gruesome murder, foul play and pathos we've come to expect from one of the world's most famous literary legends, adding a touch of the silly as well.

Funny, cautionary and fake-bloody, Macbeth will be enjoyed by all ages and is a great first taste of Shakespeare.

“...the play brings the violent tale to life with clowning prowess, false teeth falling in the cauldron and fake blood explosions of silly string spewing all over the stage.”

This thrilling musical biography focuses on one of the finest classical artists of the 20th century – the late Luciano Pavarotti.

Catch opera star David Rogers-Smith as he performs a suite of exquisite arias and popular songs made great by Pavarotti, as well as sharing anecdotes from the life of this legendary star.

Selections include: Nessun dorma, La donna mobile, Vesti la giubba, Ave Maria, O sole mio, My Way and La Vie en rose.

“Our audience were blown away by David’s extraordinary voice, showmanship and how entertaining the show was. The musicians accompanying David were top notch, and it was fantastic to see members of our audience genuinely brought to tears by the sheer beauty of the opera performed.”

Raised by her grandmother in a brothel, French cabaret star Edith Piaf was discovered while singing on a street corner at the age of 19. Despite her success, her life was filled with tragedy.

Explore the music and story of this international chanteuse in Exposing Edith, a multi-award winning cabaret show created and performed by Michaela Burger and Greg Wain.

“Exposing Edith is a charming piece of cabaret that delves into the highs and lows of Edith Piaf’s life. Being somewhat ignorant about Piaf’s personal life, it was fantastic to hear the stories behind the infamous pain-infused songs that she was known so well for, bestowing new meaning and insight. A beautiful show that held the audience throughout.”

Inspired by the craftsmanship and legacy integral to the Mayoral Chain this exhibition unpacks traditional ways of making and traditional ceremonies within contemporary society.

The Mayoral Chain is one of the last great ornate pieces of civic ceremonial costume that conveys many layers of history, status and community pride. Today's traditional ceremonies rarely attract such elaborate adornments but the relationship exists particularly through the craftsmanship employed. Mayoral Chain, the exhibition, discusses the ways in which contemporary society has morphed the traditions of ceremonial jewellery into contemporary adornments.

A musical celebration of misadventure - an exploration of the masculine psyche executed with a restrained buffoonery befitting the subject matter.

This performance is based on the album Urban Sea Shanties, originally recorded in 2009 in league with the Spooky Men's Chorale.

“A delightful collaboration between two of the hottest acts on the Australian Festival Scene. Switch off your finer sensibilities and tune into your base chakra.”

Andy Copeman, Daily Planet

“Urban Sea Shanties shanghaies the listener into a rich musical journey from the bars of Birmingham to the flooded streets of New Orleans, from the Mosques of Karachi to the Dapto Dog Track...painting a musical picture of adventurous travel exploring a wide, colourful world...”

Craft Victoria present a conversation with local makers and creatives to discuss how to put a price tag on creative work.

Artists and craftspeople routinely undersell themselves and their work. So how to make a living? If you have ever wondered:

- How can I make a living from my work?
- How do we balance the demands of the market, the labour intensive quality of how creatives work and the bottom line of selling work?
- How to match all of this with a narrative and education about why the handmade and the creative matters?
- Who gets how much of a cut and how does that affect the maker?

Then you need to attend this panel discussion on the different ways craftwork can be priced.
