Life drawing has been my passion since school days. I like the challenge of capturing the figure on paper as accurately as I can in a very short time. I approach other work in much the same way, using a variety of different media to make quick spontaneous marks to convey my subject.

Working with acrylic, mixed media and hot and cold wax techniques, I paint in an abstract way. Colour and texture excite my creativity as well as the process of revelation through improvising. For me art involves an ongoing dialogue between intuition and the characteristics of the medium.

My passion is Photography, I enjoy capturing nature, wildlife and the calming essence of the country lifestyle in which this region so effortlessly provides. The sensational flora and fauna also make for a wonderful backdrop for portrait photography.

I love the immediacy and deceptive simplicity of drawing with pencils. Using the most basic of drawing implements, I capture a moment in time, a slice of light or shadow, the energy of a child, or an unguarded moment. Drawing is both challenging and meditative.

With a background in graphic design, I now enjoy applying illustrations, photography, text and textures onto a clay surface. Screenprinting, print transfer, stenciling and embossing are some of the techniques I use to create vessels, dishes and small sculptures.

My passion has always been textiles. Inspired by the natural environment around my bush studio, I paint on silk and wool with dyes, both natural and French silk dyes using Japanese shibori resist techniques and free machine embroidery creating art to wear and silk art quilts.

My printmaking currently involves relief printing with lino on my small printing press. This includes monochrome images as well as colour reduction pieces. I also enjoy abstract acrylic painting and use ink and watercolour to make cards.
